

ICELAND
A large island in the North Atlantic, shown in green. It features a grid of internal lines representing administrative districts. Numerous place names are scattered across the island, including Reykjavik, Akureyri, and Siglufjörður. The map also shows the surrounding waters and smaller islands.

FEROE ISLANDS
A group of islands located south of Iceland, shown in green. The main island is labeled 'FRYGGJAFUNDUR'. Other islands shown include 'LÍFUR' and 'SUND'. The map includes details of the islands' coastlines and some internal features.

SHETLAND ISLANDS
A group of islands north of the Orkney Islands, shown in red. The main island is 'LÉNAS' (Lewis). Other islands include 'HÀVARS' (Harris) and 'MURRAY' (Murray). The map shows the rugged coastlines and some internal details.

ORKNEY ISLANDS
A group of islands north of the Shetland Islands, shown in red. The main island is 'PAPA' (Papa Westray). Other islands include 'SANDAY' (Sanday) and 'BURRAY' (Buray). The map shows the islands' positions and some internal details.

HARRIS
A large island in the Shetland Islands, shown in red. It is labeled 'HARRIS' and 'HARRIS'. The map shows its extensive coastline and some internal details.

MURRAY
An island in the Orkney Islands, shown in red. It is labeled 'MURRAY' and 'MURRAY'. The map shows its coastline and some internal details.

IRISH SEA
The body of water between the British Isles and Scandinavia. The map shows the coastlines of Ireland, Great Britain, and the surrounding waters. Numerous place names and details are provided for the region.

NORTH SEA
The body of water between the British Isles and Scandinavia. The map shows the coastlines of Great Britain, Denmark, and the surrounding waters. Numerous place names and details are provided for the region.

GERMAN OCEAN
The body of water between the British Isles and Scandinavia. The map shows the coastlines of Denmark, Germany, and the surrounding waters. Numerous place names and details are provided for the region.

Not known and is not a part of the British Empire as the British Empire is not a part of the British Empire.

In the British Isles are some islands which are not included in the British Empire as the British Empire is not a part of the British Empire.